ODDS AND ENDS OF GOSSIP.

WHEN MARIA STARTS THE FIRE.

At the untimely hour of four, the time when all the world should sleep, I'm wakened by a stunning door.

She rises Phoebe-like from bed, puts on a wig to knock you dead, then in a moment she has fled.

I hear a rumble and a roar, like waves upon a rock-shore there, then bang, down falls a ton of ware.

I hear a rattle, rattle, and a slam, a muttered word that sounds like clam, she's wrestling with that foolish man.

Oh, my, that blasted fire!

Then into the cold world she goes, and bumps against a wall that clings about her from those swift flames.

Oh, my, that blasted fire!

The pin of nails were sent, I hear a wild, blood-curdling shout, the contents have been hurled out.

On my Maria!

She rises in her fearful wrath and kicks the wall she has just fled from.

She sits in the hall and mopes, and hears the commotion through the door, I hear struggling over the floor.

At last she builds the fire.

Then when it laves cheerfully, my dear Maria steps the hall, and exerts the back-scratcher for her.

On that old kitchen fire.

No sign of conflict in her air, how calm, new waves beyond the kitchen fire.

Who builds the kitchen fire!

IN THESE ends of the century days when woman's rights is scarcely questioned, it seems to note that a popular monthly has this query at the head of an article: "Is Beauty a Blessing?"

Not a blessing in general, but to a woman, solely are particularly with a big W. I have often heard that "beautiful souls and beautiful bodies are seldom wed," but it has never seemed just to me. Why should a woman, possessing personal loveliness be a greater fool or a greater sinner than her plainer sister?

It does not seem to reason that when one has a pretty face and the most needs cultivate sweeten's of disposition, and her power of mind and body and all the womanly graces that have been spoken of as "above the price of riches." She can't help but know she is beautiful, and knowing it, why shouldn't she rejoice in it as one who rejoices in the sweet, fresh air and sunlight? If Narcissus-like, she falls in love with her own reflection, and obtrudes it upon others, there is some flaw in her character and early training. But "all is vanity," saith the preacher, and it is this touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. If a woman is vain, she is vain, whether she be beautiful or not. One woman I know, whose great cause for self-glorification is that she never curls her hair, and views with a kind of pitying contempt all who are weak enough to resort to this means to improve their looks. Another is equally vain of her economical disposition and her knack of making both ends meet. Sometimes her ends overlap each other and her economy amounts to down right stinginess.

THE SEASON OPENS.—The negro excursion season is open again to the good citizens of the town may as well prepare to see our quiet village turned into a Sunday picnic ground for the accommodation of a train load of tough negroes who come out here from Louisville every few weeks during the season.

Last summer the visitations of these excursionists became a nuisance and was a source of annoyance to the good citizens of the place, and the thing has opened again and on last Sunday the negro excursionist was decidedly in our midst and proceeded to take charge of the town apparently suffering no inconvenience in getting into some of the saloons which ordinarily respect the Sunday closing law. It seems to me that the town authorities should take some action towards suppressing

CORRESPONDENCE.

FENWICK.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

The rains of Friday and Saturday were of great benefit to the community. Most all the tobacco was set and corn thinning finished.

As a general thing people are very busy and the social side of country life has little to relate.

Quite a number of the young people attended the religious revival at East Texas on Sunday and report a large number of people present.

Mrs. R. Kimberlin, of Texas, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Good, who has been quite sick since their residence in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardin, of Chapelwood, spent some days visiting friends at Lebanon last week.

Miss Berneice Montgomery, of Springfield, has been spending a week in the country with relatives and friends near Pleasant Run.

Rev. Father Ford filled his regular appointment at St. Leo's Marion county on Sunday last.

Messrs. Sanford Logsdon and Wallace Adams spent Saturday and Sunday with their uncle, Col. Robt. Melville, of Willsburg.

The harvest season began this week and the rattle of machinery is heard on every farm. There much speculation as to the prospective yield but it is a sure fact that the acreage is much greater than last year.

The Sunday School organized at the public school building a few weeks ago is increasing in attendance and a well chosen list of volunteers in charge of the Mission Barker adds an entertaining power to the ordinary services. The interest manifested by our young people, and the devotion to religious instruction by the older members of the community gives the neighborhood high social and moral rank.

THE SPICY CORRESPONDENCE from Fredericktown in a recent issue on the school trustee's election, though in humorous vein, has provoked some grave discussions of the time, and the manner of disposing of the public schools of our country. It has been suggested by some conservative teachers and others interested in the education of children, that these subjects be given a place in the programme for the approaching Teachers' Institute. It is the trustee of the county be invited to take a part in their discussion. While it is true that most County Superintendents and notably our own, have set apart a "Trustees' Day" and extended a general invitation to each class of teachers, but the very few have found time to take a part in their discussion. It becomes our sad duty to report the death of Mrs. Mary Clever who departed this life June 15th in the 50th year of her age. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Cliff Allen of the Christian Church of which she was a devoted member.

She leaves a husband and three children, brothers and sisters who are numerous friends to mourn her loss. The remains were interred the following day at the Parker family burying ground. Peace to her ashes.

Nimrod Smith and wife are visiting at East Texas.

A much needed rain fell last Friday morning and consequently the tobacco men have finished setting out their crops. On Saturday night we had a regular storm, wind, thunder and lightning, our neighbors were fearful of a tornado but Sunday morning everything was bright and cheerful and no serious damage in this section has been reported.

Wheat harvest will commence this week.

Mr. Wm. Ridd candidate for Assessor was around last week shaking hands with the boys.

Mr. J. D. Stiles is gathering blue grass at the rate of ten bushels per day.

We have often heard it said that it takes all sorts of people to make a world. It is such the case Mooresville has an assortment for you can find men of every variety here. For instance one neighbor leans another a chicken eating swine so could destroy his neighbors fowls he claims to be a disciple of Christ.

Don't forget the entertainment at St. Dominic Hall tomorrow night. A farce and negro minstrels, given by home talent, and for a charitable purpose. The program will be interesting and a good attendance is anticipated.

A BARN belonging to James P. Gregory, this county, was struck by lightning during the storm last Saturday night and soon burned to the ground. It contained a lot of valuable farming implements and two horses. Nothing was saved and the loss will be about $2,500 with no insurance.

'At the young ladies' declamatory contest at Stanford Friday night the first prize was won by Mrs. Bessie Lyle Cherry, of Bowling Green, formerly of Crab Orchard. The first prize was a gold watch. Miss Lou Clark, of Danville, was given the second prize, a handsome stand lamp. The decision was not altogether a popular one, as the audience seemed to be largely in favor of Miss Clark, who far surpassed any of her previous exhibitions of elocutionary skill—Danville Advocate.

Miss Clark was well known here having won first prize in an oratorical contest at this place last summer.

Bardonia defeated Springfield yesterday by a score of 18 to 6. Our boys showed that they needed practice, and needed it badly, as there were only three hits made off Cobbin. The visitors put up a better fighting game than when they were here before. Charley Noe caught in his old reliable way—that too, without any practice behind the bat this season. Catcher Bill Wilkins of the Louisville Club says taking his age and weight into consideration, he is one of the "finest" still. Mr. Wilson and Vice-President Charles DeJoy, of the Louisville Club, came up to get an eye on Cobbin, and were well pleased with his work in the box and at the bat. Cobbin getting in his third home run this season. The following is the score:

Bardonia.....13000000-13
Springfield.....00102002-6

Mr. Isaac Haver, proprietor of the Barton House, Barton, N. Y., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey an idea of what I suffered, but physicians told me nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death could relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1904, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limbs were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Keep the empires and the king of some from falling into Austrian hands were heard to the same correspondent. "Do not abandon my son," the emperor pleaded, "and remember that I would rather lose him in the State than in the hands of the enemies of France. The fate of France, prisoner to the Germans, has always seemed to me the unhappy lot in history." In this ultimate decision Napoleon showed how congenial he had grown. He had forgotten, if he ever understood, the extreme centralization of France. He should have known that, Paris lost, the head of the country was gone and that the dwarfed limbs could develop little or occasional vitality. "M. Louis of Napoleon," by Professor W. M. Sloane, in Century.

Fortunate Accident.

A large number of the world's greatest inventions have been the result of some accidental union of forces, the nature of which the person who started them neither understood nor suspected. The working of dynamo at long distances apart, when properly connected, was discovered by accident. A scientific journal says: "Soon after the opening of the Vienna exposition in 1873 a careless workman picked up the ends of a couple of wires which he found trailing along the ground. He fastened them in the terminals of a dynamo, to which he thought they belonged, while they were really attached to another dynamo that was running in another part of the grounds. The dynamo to which he fastened the wires was not running, but as soon as the wires were placed in the terminals it revolved as if a steam engine was driving it. The workman was amazed. The engineers and electricians were astonished by the discovery that a dynamo electric machine (turned about by steam power) would turn another similar machine a long distance away if properly connected to it by electric wires. This originated one of the most revolutionary applications of electricity."

The fact that power can be transmitted by miles by electric wires is one of the most important factors in modern civil engineering achievements.

INVENTORS AND PATENTS.

North Carolina has one inventor to every 18,367 of its people.

There are 4,548 patents for the manufacture of furniture other than chairs.

Of mechanical motions there are 1,775 known to the officials at the patent office.

The inventor of artificial stone and the manufacture of time and constant water clocks.

The art of printing is covered by 6,833 patents, other of machines or special devices used in work.

The young American idea is taught to about by means of 193 patents issued in such educational appliances.

The Core Crop.

An Ohio farmer as Valdo B. Brown of Ohio farms having corn with the excellent machines that are now used for the purpose and which cost him the folder at the same time. In a letter to Prairie Farmer he writes:

I am a farmer at the institutions the past winter who had handled the corn and folder in this way and while they had, in a few cases, been troubled with the shelled folder heating, I think we shall learn to manage it so as to avoid trouble and loss. Turning the corn into the folder in excellent shape, but shelled corn is troublesome to keep. If we adopt the plan of threshing, we will be obliged to make granaries with good ventilation so that the air will circulate through—and I think it can be arranged—or else we must keep dry the corn. In some way the question will be solved practically, for there is a growing appreciation of the value of corn folder and the benefit of shelling it, and the manufacturers of husking and shelling machinery are experimenting and will develop find out a safe way to manage the folder.

"Might I ask," said the lady from South America, "why that plain person at the far side of the room arrogates up to herself so many airs?"

"She is a daughter of the Revolution," said the one interested in social questions, "and her ancestor fought in the Revolution."

"Oh," said the lady from South America, "I expect she is the daughter of 17 of them."—Louisiana Journal.

Startling Elm Riot.

"I am deeply interested in discovering the last tribes of Israel," said Mr. Sherry as he came in and out down by the bay officer for an hour's discussion of the subject.

"You," replied the man of resources, "why don't you advertise for them? The last tribe is the one that is in New York, Dick, show the gentleman to the advertising department."—Louisville Herald.

Said a gentleman at the Victoria the other day: "The President of the United States stands in considerable danger since the attempted assassination of the president of France the other day for there are thousands of cranks whose heads are completely turned by this sort of things, and a tragedy of this nature is generally soon followed by another of like kind, but it is a hard matter for one of these lunatics to injure the chief executive of our country now, as he is closely guarded by private detectives who are quick to detect any peculiar action upon the part of strange individuals."

The senate made rapid work on the tariff bill today. There were no long speeches. Thirty-seven pages were disposed of, carrying the senate through the agricultural schedule and up to schedule H, relating to spirits, wines, etc. During the paragraphs on dairy products, farm products, fish, fruits and nuts, meat products and miscellaneous agricultural products were acted on. The finance committee proposed many changes, in the main advancing rates somewhat over those already proposed. The committee was sustained on every vote.

IN plain Egypt, we need a larger army than we have got at present. That is the only way to get the country along with any satisfaction. Since 1899 we have not only added Burma to India but have also added Egypt to the north and west, but we have emptied Egypt, have doubled the area of our possessions in South Africa, have made the Sudan a vast addition to our empire on the Niger and have greatly extended our responsibilities in the far western archipelago. But, though we have added so much to our empire, our army in these years, we have not done so in anything like the proper proportion. We have increased the empire of the British by 100 per cent, but the European states, and we have added enough troops to garrison a couple of small islands, and only in the most trifling way. No former task of the empire of large size and only now use its staff by a key and a donkey cart. If he does a little more, he will find that he could only just manage the plotting table to plot the new garrison, his bullets to furnish his business, London

Old Age In England.
A book on the subject of old age, published in England some time ago, furnishes some interesting information concerning centenarians. Of the 53 mentioned, 26 were females. Eleven of these were single, 5 were married and 33 widowed. Three only were in difficult circumstances, 28 were comfortable and 19 poor. Nine were fat, 15 in average condition and 29 thin. Thirty-six had good appetites, 10 moderate and 2 bad. Fifteen were total abstainers, 24 drank a little, 6 were moderate and 1 drank whatever he could get. There cream, which expels all humors through the proper channels, and so makes the
